Temple B'nai Or

From the Rabbi....

One of my favorite Talmudic quotes from the section entitled, the Ethics of Our Fathers, says, “Make your study of Torah a fixed habit. Say little and do much and greet all people with a cheerful smile.” All too often in synagogue life, the study of Torah or study of any kind is focused primarily on kids. Adult learning gets put on a shelf. We are busy. We don't feel like we have time for ourselves let alone for Jewish learning.

Please consider changing that thinking. Make room for Jewish learning. Beginning this fall, the Adult Education Committee, now called Lifelong Learning, is making its way back on to the Temple calendar. Our impressive and diverse Lifelong Learning Committee has been hard at work. The survey they sent, with over 100 responses, yielded some very helpful information regarding the types and timing of classes to be offered. In August, we will send everyone a calendar listing all of the Lifelong Learning opportunities from September through December so that you can mark your calendars and be sure to attend.

This year we joined the Jewish Book Counsel. We received one copy of over 250 books. I had the opportunity to hear 200 authors present information about their books. It was very exciting! We have invited several of the authors to come to speak at Temple, this will add to the richness of our Lifelong Learning program. The author learning sessions promise to be outstanding and not to be missed! Since we get to keep all the books that were sent, our TBO library will get new books that will be loaded onto the shelves over the summer. Come and check it out. There is something for everyone in the new book collection.

I know how hard it is to find time for ourselves and for adult learning. We need to find the time so we can grow as individuals, as Jews, and as a community. Mark your calendars with all of the Lifelong Learning dates so that we can become more learned together. I am excited to begin learning with you.

From the Cantor...

L'olam Va'ed לעולם ועד

A camera zooms out from the tiniest cell, and then zooms out to a full organism, and then out further to an entire city perhaps, and then until you view an entire country. The camera continues out into outer space, and we can view planet earth until it disappears in the infinity of space. We've all seen various examples of such an image.

In Hebrew, this concept of the endless universe is called olam. The term refers to this planet as well as to all worlds – infinity!

Hebrew fascinates me and excites me to the core of my being. In my adult Hebrew class, I taught that olam, the concept of endless universe, is also used to express the concept of endless time. L'olam means forever and l'olam va'ed – is forever and ever.

Now try this: in lieu of a camera zooming out, use your mind to imagine Time. Start from this very second, you're reading this article. Thanks for that! Zoom out to the rest of your day: errands, work, a nice workout, kids, parents? Now open up to your week – what does that look like? The month? How's this last year been? We are all looking forward to summer mode, so dwell there for a second. Another year has passed. Now continue to look onward towards the idea of many years, your life span. Can you continue? Can you think of those who were before you? And those who will follow? It's hard to “picture” as the camera does so easily.

Now add a little Jewish spice to your “picture.” Did you see that anywhere? Is Judaism in your daily practice? Maybe weekly? Perhaps monthly? Or yearly? Is it in past generations? Will it be in future ones? If you're having trouble seeing it in your mind's eye, why don't you join us at services this summer? They're laid-back, hopefully held outside, and with some good music.

Have a meaningful summer,
Cantor Galit Dadoun Cohen

From the President...

The Temple model has been changing. Many congregants want different things from us than in the past. We need to be able to serve the needs of our congregants that want “traditional” services. We also want to serve congregants that are looking for the Temple to meet their needs in alternative ways. Our Temple vision statement reflects our desire to Connect Tradition to Life.

We have excellent volunteers leading committees, chairing task forces, and running our Temple groups that are committed and full of ideas to meet the needs of all of our congregants. In the next year there will be more community building events, and we will be launching a new lifelong learning program that will provide more opportunities for congregants to be engaged with Temple, meet new people, learn at every stage of life, and connect with our clergy.

Our schools are continually evolving to meet the needs of our children. Our staff strives to improve to ensure that we are educating young Jews to love Judaism and instill in them our core values of Community, Diversity & Acceptance, Torah, Education, Mitzvot and Worship.

TBO is OUR place. If there is something you want that we are not providing, share your thoughts. Feedback is wanted and it is appreciated. If there are ways you'd like to get involved but you're not quite sure how, please ask. We will try new things that you may or may not like; understand that we are trying to meet the needs of a diverse group of congregants in the best way we can. Come to the things that intrigue you, skip the ones that don't. Support our Temple. Get involved. Help shape our Kehilah Kedoshah.

I look forward to working with you, and for you, these next two years.

Michele Murray, President

Why I Volunteer...

Debbie Golub joined Temple with her husband, Steven, and their daughter, Samantha, seven years ago. Debbie has served as a Trustee on the Temple Board, on the HR Committee, and is currently the parent volunteer, affectionately known as the “choir mom” for Ketzev, TBO’s Junior Choir. We are very grateful for Debbie’s ongoing contributions, and we thought we’d ask her:

Q. Why do you volunteer at Temple?

A. I volunteer with the Ketzev Choir because of Cantor Galit's passion and commitment to the kids. I really enjoy working with the kids and I love watching them when they are performing. They are a great group and love what they are doing in Ketzev.

Q. What advice would you give others that are interested in getting more involved?

A. My advice would be find something that you enjoy. Volunteering with Ketzev gives me an opportunity to spend time with my daughter and help Cantor Galit. Any of the services the kids sing at are so moving and meaningful.

From the Pre-School...

Abraham Joshua Heschel said, "Our goal should be to live life in radical amazement....get up in the morning and look at the world in a way that takes nothing for granted. Everything is phenomenal; everything is incredible; never treat life casually. To be spiritual is to be amazed." How often are you amazed? How often do you mean the word awesome when you say it?

I spend most of my days in awe. Walking into classrooms and seeing the interactions between our staff and our students, between the students and one another, as well as the materials around them, truly blows my mind. Our pre-school staff provides extraordinary experiences on a daily basis. It's why our school continues to expand, and how we know that this is truly sacred work. I continually reflect on how our students are learning, and strive to create an environment that exemplifies the very best for them. We build solid foundations of learning, social skills, and self awareness. There is nothing more amazing than watching children experience something for the first time, and nothing more gratifying than being to be able to provide the opportunity.

As the pre-school continues to grow into new classrooms, I am happy that we will be able to allow more students to experience the beauty of our program. As we greet each day with open hearts and open minds, may we find the incredible everywhere we are. May we cherish our friends and family, and as Heschel said, "never treat life casually." Hoping your summer is filled with awe and amazement.

Renaissance News

The Renaissance Group enjoyed an informative and thought-provoking luncheon with Rabbi Josh Weinberg of ARZA on June 15th. Rabbi Weinberg discussed some of the challenges currently facing Israel, focusing on the egalitarian section of the Western Wall, and relating these challenges to Israel's founding and the difference between creating a Jewish state vs. a state for Jews. Everyone left sated from lunch and with a lot to ponder.

Upcoming events, which are open to the entire Temple community, as well as to guests, include:

- Sunday, July 3 – Brunch at noon at Pavinci Italian Grill in Hopatcong, NJ
- Sunday, August 7 – Annual Music-filled BBQ at TBO at 4PM
- Wednesday, September 14 – Join us for Lunch at TBO

Remarks from David Iskovitz, Director of Education, Joel and Helen Jacobs Religious School Orim Graduation, May 13, 2016

Shabbat Shalom.

Starting at this point of the year, I'll hear from parents why their child cannot continue past B'nai Mitzvah within the Religious School. The story is always the same. Sports commitments, band practices, and schoolwork lead the list. The need to keep Jewish education, Jewish life, Jewish commitment and continuity quickly goes off the radar screen.

These ORIM graduates prove that you can do it all and gain a true Jewish neshamah (soul) along the way. Before you are young adults who:

- Are members of the National Honors Society
- Will be attending prestigious colleges and universities
- Are band and color guard members
- Are winners of the Girl Scout Gold Award
- Play varsity gold, soccer, baseball, and more; and received athletic scholarships
- Are on debate and forensic teams
- Volunteer for Temple as Madrikhim
- Are involved with Mitzvah Corps and numerous other organizations that benefit from their efforts
- Babysit for our TBO families
- Attended the Religious Action Center L'taken Weekend meeting staff on Capitol Hill
- Are in board positions -including the president- for BOOTY and NFTY
- Spent weekends with our 6th graders at their Camp Harlam Shabbaton
- Are highly artistic, talented, and creative
- Chant Torah, lead services, and do all the "Jewy" things that Jews do
- Even find time to work
- They are even good looking!!
- Give heartfelt hugs that make you melt
- Flash smiles galore

They can do it all, and they did it all.

I am so proud. I am beaming with joy and delight at who these graduates are. The future of our people is in good hands.

Michael Wyschogrod, one of the greatest Jewish theologians of the 20th century said, "The God of Israel enters space and time... God dwells not only in Israel (but) also in their bodies" and this is true for these young adults. They have a trusting relationship with God, our heritage, our traditions, and our state of Israel.

The personal growth we've witnessed is nothing short of astonishing.

Everyone is impressed, impacted, inspired, and influenced by these gentlemen and ladies. Certainly me. I can genuinely say we have a good old lovefest with one another.

My thanks to the parents who understood the importance of continuing the Jewish education of their children and entrusted us with that responsibility. You schlepped them here, you created a Jewish home and lifestyle for them and we are grateful for all your efforts. You are as much a blessing to our people as are your children.

I leave you with one charge. Continue having the grit each of you have! Get up if you fall. Keep moving forward. Stay true to yourself and your heritage. Stay proud. Stay connected. Know you are genuinely loved by all. You've made a difference in our lives in so many ways. Wrestle with God. Keep asking questions. And in the words of Billy Joel, "We love you just the way you are..."
